LABOR DAY

A LARGE CROWD OUT DESPITE THE WEATHER YESTERDAY.

There was a large crowd went to La Belle park yesterday, despite the bad weather during a portion of the day. It is estimated that there were 1,200 or more. The Central Labor Union will lose nothing, however, if the crowd was not up to expectations, as the privileges were sold to outsiders, and if there were any losses they were doubtless small. Everything passed off well, and most of the day was spent in dancing, owing to the rain.

A SEVERE STORM

EIGHTEEN SAILING CRAFT REPORTED LOST IN IT.

Cape Town, Sept. 2.—Eighteen vessels, mostly sailing craft, have been driven ashore in a gale at Port Elizabeth. Five of them were dashed to pieces and all the members of the crews were lost. Two tugs are also reported to have foundered, and a score of lighters are ashore. It is feared that there has been great loss of life.

VERY LITTLE MONEY

But These Robbers Made A Good Job of Their Work

Robbed an Express Messenger of $500, Rode Until Ready to Get Off, and Then Escaped.

STORY OF THE HOLD-UP

Nashville, Sept. 2.—A bold train robbery occurred last night between Nashville and Franklin. The express car of the Louisville and Nashville No. 2, was entered just as the train was pulling out of Franklin by two masked men, armed to the teeth, who ordered the express messenger, A. B. Battle, to throw up his hands and march to the rear of the car. The robbers then proceeded to run through the packages of the local safe, securing about $500, and after riding nearly eighteen miles, jumped from the train near Nashville and escaped. How or where the robbers got on the train is not known. The railroad officials say the through safe was not touched and no attempt was made to use dynamite. The job was a nerve one, and is believed to have been the work of old hands.

The story of the robbery as told by Messenger Battle, is substantially as follows:

"We pulled out of Franklin at 6:45, forty minutes late, and I began to prepare to check up my business for Nashville. I had got the safe open and gotten at work, sitting at the safe, when I heard some one behind me. Turning, I looked into the barrel of a big revolver, held by a man with a red handkerchief tied over his face, holes being cut for eyes, nose and mouth. 'Get up and hold up your hands,' he said, 'or I will put a hole in your head.'"

"Right behind him was another man wearing a black handkerchief over his face and also having me covered with his pistol. I got up and he ordered me to stand in the corner of the car with my back to him and my hands above my head, saying 'if you dare turn round I'll shoot. Keep your hands up.' I didn't look around to see if he had his gun on me, but obeyed him. Both men had sacks attached to their belts, and I could hear them putting the packages away. The man who did all the talking said once, 'Hurry up, George, we are getting close to Nashville.' Finally he called me to pull the bell cord, but not to look around. I obeyed, but the signal was not answered, and with an oath he ordered me to pull it again. This time the train slowed down, but I don't know exactly when the men got off, as I did not dare look around. Finally the trainmen came to see what the trouble was, and I told them of the hold-up."

IN CIRCUIT COURT

This Morning the Petit Jury Was Impaneled by Judge Husbands

The Cases Taken Up and Business Will be Pushed Rapidly—Today's Cases.

CONTINUANCES ARE EXPECTED

The case against Walter Moody, colored, for perjury, was on trial at press time in circuit court.

The first case tried today was that against Mose Maxley, charged with stealing some tools and selling them as his own, thus obtaining money by false pretenses. The jury got the case this afternoon at 2:30 and in a short time returned with a verdict of one year.

The following petit jury was empaneled:

Ira Burnley, George T. Moss, E. W. Berry, J. H. Perkins, John Rogers, B. F. McKinney, J. B. Waltman, Ed Willett, M. V. Cherry, B. H. Smithers, J. M. Hobbs, E. E. Smith, H. C. D. Howard, W. G. Whitfield, J. T. Bishop, G. W. Moore, J. J. Bleich, J. W. Stone, W. J. Bell, Nathan Kahn, J. S. Tomlinson, Jr., George C. Husbands, C. I. Knott and W. I. Browning.

Mrs. Clara Rieke Burnett was granted an absolute divorce from her husband, Emmett Burnett.

Chesley Herndon was appointed an examiner with office at Taylor, Gilbert and Lucas.

T. J. Powell and J. A. Rudy were excused as grand jurors and L. I. Craig and Jack Hart substituted in their places.

In the murder case of James Spriggs the mandate from the court of appeals was filed and the judgment ordered carried into effect. Spriggs was sentenced to 21 years in the penitentiary for the murder of Mamie Rogers, his sweetheart, at the last term of court and the case was appealed to the court of appeals, but the court of appeals affirmed. A motion for a new hearing will now be made.

Aultman Miller and Co. have filed a suit against Samuel S. Spivy to recover an alleged note of $37 with interest.

Mrs. L. A. Boli, Jr., of Kuttawa, returned home at noon after a visit to the city.

A SOUTHERN MERGER

The Latest Reports of the L & N From New York

It Is Deemed Best on Account of Hostile Legislation to Merge the L. and N.

SOUTHERN COMPANY PROBABLE

Washington, Sept. 2.—The financial writer of the New York Sun indicates the formation of a Southern Holding company, similar to the Northern Securities company, and that it will absorb the Louisville and Nashville. He says:

"On Wednesday the voting trustees of the Southern Railway company issued a circular to the holders of the stock trust certificates, furnishing some reasons for their action, and recommending in addition an extension of the voting trust agreement for a further period of five years. Inasmuch as it seems unlikely that the preferred stockholders of the Southern Railway company will receive 5 per cent. dividends within the period of twelve months, which would of itself dissolve the voting trust, it would appear that the recommendations of the board of trustees was not altogether necessary; but it is evident, on the other hand, that they desire to ascertain the views of the shareholders upon their suggestions."

"Only indirect reference was made to the status of the Louisville and Nashville property in the circular and that is still an undetermined matter. It may, however, be reiterated in this regard that when final disposition has been made of the control of the Louisville and Nashville company it will be found that the stability of the railway situation in the Southern states has been more firmly established than ever. It is necessary that the independence of the road should be destroyed, and that its control should be lodged with some other corporation."

"That corporation will not be the Southern Railway company, nor will it be any other company, the identity of which would render the transaction subject to political or legislative attack."

Miss Kate White returned home today from Slater, Mo., where she has been visiting relatives.

BODIES WASHED UP

A Terrific Storm Causes Great Destruction Near Cape Town.

Vessels Foundered and Many Bodies Have Been Washed Ashore.

AN AWFUL STATE OF AFFAIRS

Cape Town, Sept. 2.—A terrific gale, which began about midnight, has caused great loss of life and wrought much damage to shipping at Port Elizabeth. Fifty bodies have already been washed ashore there. The storm broke shortly before midnight last night, and was accompanied by a deluge of rain and brilliant lightning. The night was very dark. Several tugs went out to the assistance of the endangered vessels in the harbor, but nothing was visible from the shore at Port Elizabeth except the continual flashes of rockets as signals of distress. Daylight revealed the beach at the north end of Algoa Bay strewn with vessels lying high and dry, while others were in the surf and being swept by huge breakers.

Eighteen vessels, mostly sailing craft, were driven ashore. Five of them were dashed to pieces and all the members of their crews were lost. A score of lighters are ashore.

With the exception of four vessels which foundered with all hands, every sailing vessel in the roadstead was ashore by midday. Many steamers, after weathering the storm all night, steamed out to sea at daybreak. The British steamer Scott, belonging to the Union Steamship company of Southampton, left Port Elizabeth Saturday for Cape Town. She was due here early today but has not yet been sighted. Great anxiety is felt regarding her fate.

Sir John Gordon Spriggs, the premier, said in the house of assembly today that he feared the loss of life from the gale would be enormous.

DIED IN ASHEVILLE

WELL KNOWN CITIZEN OF METROPOLIS DIES FROM OPERATION.

"Captain" Billy McBane, of Metropolis, died in Asheville, North Carolina, this morning, the result of an operation on the stomach.

He had been suffering from stomach troubles for some time and had been operated on several times. His low condition was reported to his family and this morning his wife arrived in the city to take the train to Asheville but received the telegram announcing his death and will await the shipment of the remains back to Metropolis. Mr. McBane was well known in Metropolis.

LAUNCHED TODAY

THE NEW BOAT MAY BE NAMED THE CITY OF SALTILLO.

The statements in several contemporaries that the new steamer for the St. Louis and Tennessee River Packet company had been launched at Howard's in Jeffersonville is an error. Captain Frank Brown, this morning received a telegram that she would be launched this afternoon if nothing happens to prevent.

While it will not be known for certain what the steamer's name is until just before the launching, it is understood that she will be named the City of Saltillo.

Mr. A. B. Sowell went to Cincinnati on business today at noon.

FOUND DEAD IN BED

Corpse of an Eccentric Character Found This Morning Early

The Wanderer Had Been Seen About the City for the Past Several Weeks.

BODY HELD FOR INSTRUCTIONS

W. E. Crissey, of Windsor, Mo., an old man probably 75 years of age, was found dead in bed at his boarding house, 219 North Third street, this morning about 10 o'clock by John Wooldridge, a small boy employed about the house.

Crissey had no money and spent his time roaming around the streets. Several times Marshal Collins has received letters from his people in Windsor to send him home but the old man would not go, saying that he was "just on a little trip to Lexington and was only waiting for money."

Sunday night he engaged a room at Mrs. A. I. Sexton's residence at 219 North Third street, and had been slightly ill ever since he went there.

Last night about 8 o'clock he came in and in passing through the rooms remarked that he had been feeling ill for the past several days but thought he would be all right in the morning. With this remark he passed on upstairs and into his room where he was this morning found. The family becoming alarmed about 10 o'clock at his long sleep, which was contrary to his usual habits, sent the boy up to investigate and found the old man in bed with his shirt and pants on lying on his back dead. He was cold when found and had apparently been dead for many hours.

Mrs. Sexton remembers of hearing him labor in his sleep and toss about a great deal during the night, but thought nothing of it as this had occurred every night since he stopped there.

Coroner William Peal was notified and Undertaker M. Nance was summoned and removed the body to his establishment where it will be prepared for shipment to his people at Windsor.

Chief of Police James Collins says that the man's people are well to do and have sent for him several times. Several letters were found on his person and all were from manufacturing houses.

The venerable stranger was quite well known about town. He would approach a man and say, "Pardon me, but I am about to make a peculiar and interesting request of you. Please lend me a quarter."

If it was given him he would say thankfully, "I trust you will never find yourself in the same unfortunate condition that I am."

It is understood that once he was the attorney for some big railroad, and a lawyer of considerable renown, but lost his mind. He still traveled on passes, however, and showed in his manner and conversation that he was a man of no little refinement and intelligence.

Some of those who know him think he committed suicide, while others, especially those at the boarding house, think he died from natural causes.

Coroner Peal will hold an inquest this afternoon some time.

One thing that led some to believe the theory of suicide was the fact that he went to Bond's drug store a few days ago and asked the clerk how much morphine it required to kill a person, and all manner of questions

Are You Expectant? MOTHER'S FRIEND

makes childbirth easy and almost painless, by preparing the system for parturition, thus assisting Nature, and shortening labor. The painful ordeal of childbirth is robbed of its terrors, and the danger thereof greatly lessened, to both mother and child. The period of confinement is also greatly shortened, the mother rested, and the child fully developed, strong and healthy.

Morning sickness, or nausea arising from pregnancy is prevented by relieving the stomach from the pressure brought to bear on it by the expanding organ, and by which it is influenced through sympathy.

As pregnancy advances, the breasts enlarge, become swollen, hard and tight. Long before the child is born, they are preparing for the secretion of milk. It is important to successful child rearing that these glands receive early consideration. Mother's Friend softens the skin, relieves the pressure, and facilitates the secretion of Life Fluid. Undeveloped and occluded ducts, and breasts hard-caked shortly after delivery, are the result of non-treatment and likely to culminate in Mammary Abscess from which the patient suffers excruciating pain and is left with these functional organs permanently impaired.

Mother's Friend is always applied externally and rubbed into the flesh over the region of pain. Softness, pliability and expansion are given to the muscles, tissues, fibres and sinews, allowing the elasticity necessary to bring comfort while with heavy burden, and cause easy issue of the child. Try it. Of all druggists $1.00. Our book "Motherhood" free.

YOUNG WIFE DESERTED.

SUIT BEGUN AGAINST THE FATHER-IN-LAW, A KENTUCKY CAPITALIST.

San Bernardino, Cal., Sept. 2—A romance beginning a year ago in Indianapolis, which resulted in the elopement of Emmett Rose, son of E. H. Rose, a capitalist, and Miss Maybel Middleton, who were married in Cincinnati, Ohio, has culminated here in the desertion of the young wife and a suit for $250,000 against her father-in-law, claiming that he alienated her husband's affections.

The young man's parents refused to recognize the wife, but sent the couple west. Yesterday the wife returned home to find her husband gone. Another woman, an intimate friend of the two, is also said to be missing. The deserted wife found a package of letters from the elder Rose urging his son, it is alleged, to desert her. E. H. Rose is president of the San Maguel ranch, which controls thousands of acres in Mexico. His present residence is Owensboro, Ky.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS NECESSARY ON THE ILLINOIS CENTRAL.

Officials of the Illinois Central say they have spent $30,000,000 on the line during the past few years, yet the phenomenal growth of business will justify the expenditure of $15,000,000 more on improvements. There is an excess of traffic, and the receipts reached $9,506 a mile last year, compared with $5,400 a mile for the year 1889.

DEVoured BY WORMS.

Children often cry, not from pain, but from hunger, although fed abundantly. The entire trouble arises from inanition, their food is not assimilated, but devoured by worms. A few doses of White's Cream Vermifuge will cause them to cease crying and begin to thrive at once, very much to the surprise and joy of the mother. 25c at DuBois, Kolb and Co.

FIRE AT CREAL.

A blaze originated in one of Creal Spring's principal business blocks Sunday morning and did about $30,000 worth of damage before subdued. SHOOTING AT A FESTIVAL

TWENTY SHOTS FIRED AND TWO MEN SO BADLY WOUNDED THEY WILL DIE.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Sept. 2.—During the progress of a colored festival near Pembroke a fight occurred in which two men were mortally wounded and another badly injured. A supper was being held at the home of Frank Massie, when the Ware brothers, four in number, raised a disturbance. Massie remonstrated with them, when the firing began. During the melee Dick Tandy was shot four times and Frank Massie once. Both will die. Will Williams was also shot in the head, but may recover. There were about twenty shots fired, when the affair broke up in confusion.

BOXER UPRISING GROWS.

FURTHER COLLECTION OF LIKIN TAX FORBIDDEN IN CHINA.

Pekin, Sept. 2.—An edict has been issued forbidding any further collections of the likin, or inland revenue tax on goods in transit from one province to another. This edict, which was issued in view of the recent tariff treaty with the powers, orders the board of revenue to devise methods for compensating the provinces for the loss of this money. It says the likin, which was originally a war measure, has become oppressive through the cupidity of the officials.

The Boxer uprising in the province of Szechuan is growing.

PREDICTS END OF STRIKE.

SENATOR PLATT SAYS TROUBLE WILL BE SETTLED WITHIN TWO WEEKS.

New York, Sept. 2.—Senator Thomas C. Platt said today at the Oriental hotel, Coney Island, that the end of the coal strike is at hand.

"The coal strike will be settled within a week, or within two weeks at the outside," said the senator. "It will be settled in such a way that it will not be a political issue of any kind this fall."

Senator Platt added that he was not at liberty to say anything more about the matter or about the manner in which the strike would be settled, but the next few days would bear out his statement.

WADSWORTH-HAY NUPTIALS.

WEDDING TO OCCUR AT LAKE SUNAPEE, N. H., SEPT. 30.

Washington, Sept. 2.—Miss Alice Hay, the youngest daughter of John Hay, secretary of state, will be married on September 30 to James Wolcott Wadsworth, Jr., at the summer home of Mr. Hay at Lake Sunapee, N. H. The wedding will be a quiet affair, and will be the culmination of a pretty and rather unusual romance, for the young people have been lifelong friends, and as boy and girl were sweethearts. The marriage would have occurred a year or more ago had not the parents of the young people thought them too youthful to marry.

THE ODOR OF GARLIC CONQUERED

Even She Who Wasn't a Bit "Stuck Up" Had to Leave Her Seat.

Two Italian workmen found two empty seats in a Brooklyn trolley car and plumped themselves and their bundles into them. On their right sat a pretty, well-dressed girl.

Presently she turned her face toward them, a look of disgust came over it, and with uplifted nose she arose and quietly stood in front of the empty seat, holding on to the strap. Near her stood another girl, not quite so well dressed, who watched the little scene. When the annoyance was plain on the first girl's face, the second girl stepped forward, swished her skirts like a challenge and sat down in the empty seat with an expression on her face that said plainly, "Well, I'm not ashamed to sit by working-men." In less than a minute there came over the second girl's features a look of suspicion that yielded to one of embarrassment and chagrin, and in a manner half-meek and half-defiant, she, too, stood up and grabbed a strap. She did not look at the now smiling first girl. By this time, says the New York Mail and Express, other persons in the car understood and held their noses. It was garlic.

"Salivets."

Speaking of "salivets," a Buffalo woman has a little story to tell. When she asked a clerk in a certain store for a cuspidor the young man responded with kindly forbearance, "Do you mean 'salivet,' maddam?" The lady had never heard the thing called by that name, but not wishing to appear ignorant of the niceties of the vernacular, she meekly submitted to correction. The young man was sorry, but they were no longer keeping "salivets" in stock.

Going to another store, the lady, on the point of asking again for a cuspidor, suddenly checked herself, and, hesitating a moment to recall the latest fashionable name, asked with confidence, "Have you any spitalenes?"—Buffalo Commercial.

The number of Mormons in this country has more than doubled in a decade. In 1890 there were 144,000; in 1900 there were more than 300,000.

WISHED TO PRESERVE ETIQUETTE

Country Bride Naturally Hesitated About Addressing Stranger.

A young married couple—from the country, of course—attended an exhibition of "Dissolving Views." The bride, being very pretty, attracted the attention of a stylish looking city gentleman, who happened to occupy the same seat with the happy pair. During the exhibition the part of the hall occupied by the audience was obscured. By some accident the lights went out also on the stage. During the darkness the young man from the city pressed the hand of the bride. She was much alarmed, but offered no resistance. Then he actually leaned over and kissed her. This was too much, and the wife resolved to tell her husband.

"John."

"What?"

"This fellow's kissing me."

"Well, tell him to quit."

"No, John, you tell him."

"Tell him yourself."

"No, John, I don't like to tell him. You tell him. The gentleman's a perfect stranger to me."—Philadelphia Times.

An Bedroom in the Family.

The person who is inclined to boast of his valuable possessions is likely to have the laugh turned upon him on occasions. A wealthy man was once proudly exhibiting to some acquaintances a table which he had bought, and which he said was 500 years old.

"That is nothing," said one of the company. "I have in my possession a table which is more than 3,000 years old."

"Three thousand years old!" said his host. "That is impossible! Where was it made?"

"Probably in India."

"In India! What kind of a table is it?"

"The multiplication table."

Tide in the St. Lawrence.

The ocean tide is noticeable in the St. Lawrence river as far up as the city of Three Rivers, which is 72 miles below Montreal. At Three Rivers spring tide, that is the highest tide, rises to a height of one foot. At Quebec city spring tide rises to a height of 17½ feet.

THE WEATHER.

Fair tonight and cooler in the east
portion; Wednesday fair.

Labor Day was not observed in the Panther Creek valley, probably because it has been a long time since
most of the miners had a day's work.

The country is becoming more and more reunited every year. The commander-in-chief of the G. A. R. has issued an appeal for funds to aid in
the erection of a home for ex-Confederates.

The Turkish government has denied
that it issued an abrupt note to the United States minister. Turkey may be somewhat careless in some things,
but it knows better than to monkey
with the band wagon.

Labor Day seems to have been extensively and pleasingly celebrated
throughout the country yesterday,
despite the bad weather in many places. As a legal holiday for the first time, it was a marked success in Kentucky.

Oom Paul has apparently lost his strong hold on the Boers, and some of the leaders are quoted as saying that if it came to a test the people would put their faith in the fighters. It seems the venerable president made a mistake by traveling too much during
the Boer war.

If the administration keeps on as it has been doing in past years soon every corporation in the state will want to be "merged" with something to escape hostile legislation. It looks like
some of the politicians work overtime
trying to find some new kind of tax to impose on the railroads and other public utilities.

The Bryan Democrats and the silver Republicans of Nevada, says the Louisville Post, have fused on a gold
short visit to his mother, Mrs. Addie Democrat for governor. His name

is Sparks, and he voted for McKinley in 1896 and 1900. If Mr. Watterson had known such a thing was possible he would not have withdrawn from the race for the Democratic nomination for governor of Kentucky.

The ordinances, one for a vote on bonds for street improvements and another for a new market house and new city hospital, will be presented to the council tonight for action. It is believed they will pass almost unanimously. A prominent worker in the Commercial club said this morning
that in his opinion improvements
such as would be made with a $300,- 000 bond issue would benefit the city
more than half a dozen new factories.

Gen. Anderson has authorized the Associated Press to state that he never spoke disrespectfully of Admiral Dewey in Manila and never said anything
to belittle the celebrated victory in Manila Bay. The administration is having so much trouble investigating, denying and correcting reports
published in the yellow press that
the administration should adopt a rule
to ignore anything appearing in
them, and then let them lie as much
as they please.

A large contingent of the people of Springfield, O., departed from their usual Sabbath avocations to participate in or witness an effort to close all the saloons last Sunday. The police in citizens' clothes made numerous raids,
and in cases where the saloonkeepers
declined to admit them when they demanded admission they broke in the doors with axes, to the delight of the small boy and no doubt to the edification of the populace in general. The police are now alluded to there as
"Carrie Nations."

There seems to have been a misapprehension in regard to the prospective vote at the November election on the bond question. If the council
and aldermen pass the ordinances
authorizing a vote, the question voted
on will be whether or not the people are in favor of Paducah issuing
whatever amount of bonds it may be.
If the amount is $300,000 it will not
mean that the people are voting $300,000 in taxes, which some profess to believe it will mean, but simply that they are voting their sentiments relative to issuing bonds.
The increase in taxation as a result
of a bond issue would be little, if any.

ton to attend the Car and Locomotive

KILLING IN LAUREL.

curred near McWhorter between Robert Turner and James Cunigin, in which the latter was shot and killed.
Both men had been drinking and the
quarrel came up over a woman.

HIS FAREWELL SERMON.

years pastor of the Christian church at Mayfield, leaves today or tomorrow

torate of a church there. He preached
his farewell sermon Sunday.

SUPT. RENSHAW COMING.

It is reported that Mr. William Renshaw, the superintendent of the
I. O. of Chicago, will pass through Paducah today some time en route
south on a regular inspection tour.

returned home last evening after a
short visit to his mother, Mrs. Addie

The Unhappy Burden Bear- er Must Make Choice.

Paine's Celery Compound

Takes Away the Load of Disease,
and Leads to New Life,
Health, and Happiness.

The unhappy victim of disease and
suffering who has just dragged
through the summer, and who is now
racked with suffering and almost a physical wreck, must make immediate choice of two paths. One leads to increased miseries and certain death, the
other to new life, health and happiness.

The use of Paine's Celery compound is a necessity for all who seek
the path of health and long years.
Victims of rheumatism, neuralgia,
kidney disease, liver trouble, dyspepsia, nervousness, and blood diseases
quickly and surely find new life, vigor
and strength in Dr. Phelps' medical prescription—Paine's Celery Compound. It builds up the system, purifies the blood, braces the nerves, and
regulates digestion as no other medicine can do. Mr. John C. Rowan, 137 E. Winifred St., St. Paul, Minn., says:

"Some six years ago I suffered with rheumatism in my knees so painful I could get no relief, and I had to rub
them for a moment's ease. Paine's Celery Compound cured me and eradicated
the disease from my system. I also had been afflicted with kidney disease, as most railroad men are, and I had catarrh so bad that my head
ached and my eyes were inflamed with continual pain, and I could retain
nothing but liquid food on my stomach. Today, thanks to Paine's Celery Compound, I think I am as healthy as
any man that stands on the globe."

ANOTHER VICTORY

The Railroad Won the Two Other Injunction Suits Today

Cases Were Tried and the Decision of
the Court Rendered This Morning.

Circuit Judge Husbands this morning rendered his decision in the other
two injunction suits growing out of the swearing out of warrants and
other annoyances of some of the property owners on the Cairo extension of the Illinois Central right of way. These were the injunctions of the Illinois Central against R. L. Potter and Mrs. Sam Liebel.

It was thought the attorneys would be willing to abide by the decision in the Rottgering case, which it was claimed involved the same facts and
principles of law, but the attorneys
for the property owners demanded
trials in these cases also, and Judge Husbands tried them yesterday afternoon, deciding in favor of the railroad company this morning as he did in the Rottgering case.

Well-Made Apology.

A paper in Norway recently contained the following advertisement:
"I, the undersigned, declare that,
through a regrettable mistake, I circulated the rumor that the coffee house
keeper, Jorgen Henriksen, had drunk
a glass of beer. I humbly apologize
to Mr. Henriksen for this unfounded
imputation. OLAF E. LIEN."

Auspicious Opening of Lagomarsino Hotel.

Mr. L. A. Lagomarsino threw open
the doors of his handsome new hostelry to the general public yesterday
and the beautiful edifice was thronged
all day and late into the night with
the friends of the genial proprietor
who called to wish him well and view his new home. Needless to say
Mr. Lagomarsino is proud of his house
and pleased with the auspicious opening.

The building is complete in every detail and all that fancy could desire and money could produce. It contains forty guest rooms and each
handsomely furnished in every feature. The dining room is on the first floor and is very handsome.

The bill of fare offered is as elaborate as any in the country, and the service of the very handsomest. It is under the personal supervision of Mr. Charles Davis of Baltimore, a gentleman who has had great success
in the management of like institutions, and is destined to become very popular. As a cafe for gentlemen and ladies it will fill a long felt want.
The entrance to the cafe is through a long wide hall leading off from Broadway, and it is separate and apart from the hotel proper and bar. The hotel
is five stories high with handsome
bathrooms and the latest hotel features on each floor. The bar is the finest in the south, and is, of course,
complete in every appointment. It was built for Mr. Lagomarsino by Charles Pass and Sons of Chicago.

The building the hotel occupies is Girard Was Considerate.

One of the sea captains in the employ of Stephen Girard had a rural Yankee's fondness for whittling with his jackknife, and on one trip succeeded in getting away with a large part of the rail, although, feeling that he was not without the artistic sense,
he really regarded the rail as greatly improved in appearance. When the vessel came to Philadelphia Girard
went aboard, made a general inspection in the captain's absence, and, as he was about to return to shore, asked
one of the seamen who had been cutting the rail. The seaman told him
the captain, and then, afraid his telling might have unpleasant consequences were the captain to learn of
it in a roundabout way, informed that official of the interview with Girard.
The captain was in terror of a reprimand,
but, hearing nothing from his employer, supposed the incident
closed. As he was about weighing anchor ready to leave port, a dray
loaded with shingles drove down to the wharf, and the driver hailed the vessel.

"There must be some mistake!"
shouted the captain. "Our bill of
lading doesn't mention shingles!"
"This is where they belong!" sung
back the driver. "Mr. Girard, himself, told me to deliver them! He said they're for the captain to whit-tle!"

Oriental Logic.

A man bought three pounds of meat
and brought it home to his wife to cook for dinner, and then went his way to his place of business in the bazaars. The wife was hungry and ate the meat.

In the evening the man came home
and asked for his dinner.

"There is no meat," said the wife,
"for the cat ate it."

"Bring the cat," said the man, "and a pair of scales."

"Weigh the cat," said the man. The cat weighed three pounds.

"If this is the cat," said the man,
"where is the meat? And if this the meat, where is the cat?" —Harper's Magazine.

What Whisky Will Do.

And now one of the medical journals
comes forward to say that whisky
does not cure snake bites. But if you give it to the snake he won't want to bite you, so it is just as well to take
a jug along on your vacation.

the handsomest in West Kentucky,
and is owned and was built on lines
laid down by Mr. Lagomarsino by Captain J. R. Smith.

The Sun bespeaks for Mr. Lagomar-
sino the success his handsome edifice
and his ceaseless energy merit, and
congratulates him on his auspicious
opening.

Most of the work done on the hotel
was done by Paducahians and this is a proud boast of all who see it. Mr.
A. L. Lassiter was the architect. Roberts and Ross were the general contractors. Chamblin and Murray had the brick contract, Balthasar the decoration work on the dining room and
buffet and Alex McConnell the hall-ways and rooms. Ed Hannan did the plumbing, Foreman Bros. the wiring,
hanging of fixtures, erecting of bells
and annunciators; J. C. Maret the metal work; Rudy, Phillips and Co.
furnished the carpets, curtains, drap-
eries, etc., the Paducah Furniture
Co. the bedroom furniture; Rhodes-
Burford Co. the dining room furniture; J. L. Wolff all the silver service; Noah's Ark the glass and china
ware; Fowler and Wolf the kitchen
utensils and steam table; Scott Har-
ware Co. the range; Burley and Co.,
of Chicago, the buffet glassware, baggage checks, etc. The painting was done by Kelly and Umbaugh and is a very handsome job of work. The decorating for the opening was done
by C. L. Brunson and Co. In every particular the work is good and speaks
volumes in praise of Paducah workmen.

Giving the Game Away.

A sad story is told of a sportsman
who rented a big shoot near London
on which the head of game did not coincide with the advertisement. It was felt that something desperate
must be done, for royalty itself—
though of a minor sort—was going
to attend.

A wire was dispatched to London,
and on the morning of the shoot a large number of baskets, containing aggravated and somewhat compressed
pheasants, arrived at the mansion.
These were subtly conveyed to a small cover on a rising ground, it being intended that just before luncheon
the noble sportsmen should be dazzled by the cloud of birds let loose
upon them.

The day wore on, with indifferent
sport; but at length, placing his guns
round the little cover, the host singularly promised them something above
the common. The beaters entered,
led by the head keeper who wore a knowing look.

Only four pheasants were flushed.
There followed a dreadful pause, during which the host wiped the perspiration from his brow. Then suddenly the head keeper broke from the undergrowth, with an expression of
despair stamped on his bibulous features.

"Oh, sir," he cried to his furious
master, "them baskets is all wired
down and we've forgotten the nippers!"

First "Bull" of the Session.

To Mr. MacNeill, the Irish member of Parliament, is due the credit for the first "bull" of the session. "Then
when will the heliogram correspondence be published?" demanded the persistent Irishman. Loyal ministerialists endeavored to shout him down, but Mr.
MacNeill, raising his voice to a scream
changed their wrath to mirth by challenging Mr. Brodrick to give him a
"Yes" or "No" answer. "All I ask, Mr.
Speaker," he explained with dignity,
"is that to my simple question, 'When
will the correspondence be published?'
I should have a plain 'Yes' or 'No.'"
—London Express.

Fisheries.

A comparison has been drawn in Norway as to the profit of the fisheries
in the sea and in the rivers, which shows that the former are three times
as remunerative as the latter.

HOW SLEEP MAY BE WOODED

Position in Which a Person Should Lie to Induce Somnolence.

Few persons in an ordinary assemblage can tell offhand what positions
they assume to induce sleep and yet
there is not an individual in the world who has not some trick of distributing limbs and trunk to insure slumber's blissful spell which he practices unconsciously. This is a night habit as perpetual and immutable under normal conditions as the succession of the seasons. No sooner
are we really off to the land of nod
than the night habit asserts itself.
Our hands and arms seek the same
parts of the bed or the same portions
of our bodies upon which they have
nightly rested since infancy; our feet
and legs stretch at the same angles
or loosely entwine in comfortable relaxation as commanded by unconscious
will.

It is seldom of our own deliberate
volition that we place our bodies in position for sleep, as you will find
tonight on going to bed if you remember these words. In truth, if you do not seek to combat the instincts
you will be surprised at the dispositions of the various members involuntarily made. If you endeavor to go to sleep by a new arrangement of the body you will also be surprised by
the revolt against slumber which will surely ensue, but even before the
struggle is well begun you will probably surrender and permit the al-
timate night habit to reassert itself.
Those little details of position which
long practice has made necessary to your comfort.

HE LIKES FRIED POTATOES.

Grand Duke Alexis Has a Favorite Dish, So They Say.

Grand Duke Alexis of Russia is
very fond of fried potatoes, and during his recent visit to Paris he was wont to buy a few every day from a woman in the street and to eat them
beside her stall.

The woman did not know him, but
as he paid her in princely fashion,
she was very anxious to find out who
he was.

"I can tell you who he is," said a neighbor one day. "He is Grand Duke Alexis, uncle of the czar and
one of the greatest men in Russia."
Utterly amazed, the woman asked:
"In heaven's name, how should I address him?"

"Oh, call him 'Your Excellency,' or
'Your Royal Highness,' was the answer.

The woman resolved to do so, and
the next day, as she was sprinkling
some salt over the smoking potatoes
which the grand duke had bought,
she said: "I can recommend them to your royal highness, for I know your excellency has never tasted better
potatoes."

The grand duke burst out laughing,
and paid more for the potatoes than
he had ever paid before, but he was amused at finding himself recognized
and never returned to buy another
potato.

Got Rid of Sharks.

"The waters around Martinique are usually swarming with sharks," said
old "Skipper" Perry, a retired sea
captain. "They have the reputation
of being man-eaters, which makes
bathing dangerous as well as an exciting sport. I shall never forget how, on one of my visits to the island, the engineer effectually got rid of the monsters. He took a lot of bricks, heated them to a white heat,
took them down in the fire room, and then poured oil over them. Then he quickly got them on deck, and, with the aid of a pair of tongs, he threw them overboard one by one. The first one had scarcely struck the top of the water before a hungry shark swallowed it whole. The scorching
brick inside naturally made him feel
as though there was a volcano in
his stomach, and he started to do all sorts of crazy stunts before disappearing in deep water. Each one of the hot bricks was swallowed by a
snark, and in a few minutes there
wasn't one to be seen." —Philadelphia Record.

Lace Gloves.

Lace gloves, judging from the display in the shops, are to be the vogue
this summer. They are of silk or linen thread, clocked in geometrical
or floral designs, much after the manner of the fashionable stockings.
There is a return, too, of the "mitts"
that our mothers admired, although
it seems a little unlikely that these
will be adopted except by the extremists, who welcome anything new.

PADUCAH PEOPLE RECEIVING THE FULL BENEFIT.

There have been many cases like the following in Paducah. Every one relates the experience of people we know. These plain, straightforward statements will do much toward relieving the suffering of thousands. Such testimony will be read with interest by many people.

Mr. R. K. Tilley of 406 South Third street, tobacco packer with the Allison and Veal Tobacco Co., on North Third street, says: "An aching back to a tobacco packer is not only a nuisance, but it keeps him in misery. Despite all my efforts to cure mine by using household remedies and trying treatments guaranteed by friends and acquaintances I was unable to check it, let alone cure it, until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at DuBois and Co's drug store, on Broadway. The first box gave such satisfaction that I bought a second. To say I endorse Doan's Kidney Pills mildly expresses my opinion of that remedy."

For sale by all dealers, price 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no substitute.

Veteran Politician Reappears.

An interesting incident of the Oregon election was the success of the venerable George H. Williams in the race for mayor of Portland. This is the "Laundale" Williams whose purchase of a costly carriage at government expense, though for private use, contributed to the scandals which agitated Grant's second term as President. He has been lost to sight in national affairs for twenty-five years.

LUCK OF PADUCAH FISHERMEN

In a letter to a friend today Mr. Joseph L. Friedman, who is at Star Island for a few weeks tells of one day's fishing last week when he and Mrs. J. W. Keller and Leo Keller caught 43 bass, one pickeral and one mackerel, and that Mrs. Keller caught one fish that weighed 5 3-4 pounds. Mr. Friedman will be home on the 13th inst., and Mrs. Keller will follow in a few days.

How He Helped the Town.

A man whom the Kansas papers describe as one of "Independence's real benefactors," died last week. He was a barber named Keeley. One night several years ago he left a lamp burning in his shop. It also burned the shop and a long row of old frame buildings which have since been rebuilt in brick.

"Buffalo Bill" as a Farmer.

Among the largest farmers in the country is Col. W. F. Cody ("Buffalo Bill"), who is now reclaiming through irrigation some 600,000 acres of arid land in northwestern Wyoming. The land is in the Big Horn basin and the flourishing little town of Cody has sprung up there within two years.

General Grant's Namesake.

A number of years ago a son was born to a colored woman in the South, and, as he was her first, she looked upon him with pride, and was much at a loss to find a name for him. Relatives and friends, including her mistress, were appealed to, but although many names were suggested, all were discarded.

After many days of deliberation she said one morning to her mistress: "Miss Mary, I've found a name for my boy; I'm going to name him Delicious."

"Why," said the lady, "where did you get that name?"

"Oh," she replied, "I'm going to call him that 'cause I want to name him for Mr. Grant."

When it was explained to her that the great hero was named Ulysses, and not Delicious, she was somewhat disturbed in mind, but Ulysses did not please her, so the boy had to begin life burdened with the name, Egbert Eugene.—Detroit Free Press.

Saves Sleep for His Firm.

There is a man in New York city who holds down a hilarious job. He serves a big firm in the capacity of buying entertainer. The buyers whom he entertains suppose him to be a junior partner of the firm, but he isn't. He is simply a buffer between the firm and the buyers. He saves sleep for the firm, and big heads and that morning feeling. He bears the brunt of the buyer's stored-up skittishness. The average buyer has an anticipatory glitter in his eyes from the minute that he sets foot in town. There is much that he desires to see. This buyer entertainer shows it to him. Sometimes he meets a buyer who nearly outdoes him in the high-ball home stretch about 2 o'clock in the morning; but, as a rule, he gets the buyer to his hotel in safe condition.

Just a Gentle Hint.

"If any man by the name of Gardner," says Colonel-Major Jeltz, "comes a-monkeying around here he'll get thrown and kicked down stairs." Which reminds us of a Western story long enough out of print to be new. It was in a poker game at Colby. The sheriff of Logan county had been steadily losing to the treasurer of Ellis county. The treasurer of Ellis county had the misfortune to be possessed of but one eye and he was a little clumsy in handling the cards. After a play in which the treasurer took a big pot from the sheriff the sheriff said: "Gentleman, I aint nam'n no names, but if some of you don't quit raisin' cards from the floor he'll get his other eye knocked out."—Kansas City Journal.

Colored Woman 121 Years Old. The oldest woman living at present—that is, the oldest known—is probably Mrs. Nancy Hollifield. She is a woman of color and has attained to the age of 121 years. Her case was investigated by the Rev. C. Lee some six years ago and he then found her age to be 115 years. The gentleman, who died in his 90th year, remembered Mrs. Hollifield as his nurse and that she had at that time several children, so that the estimate cannot be far short of the mark. She lives near Ellenborough, N. C.

Lesson in Politeness.

The oldest boy is a treasure, but in trying to be polite he sometimes slips up. The father of this lad had reared him to be always courteous to his elders. On going to a distant school his father had told him to telegraph home "Yes" if he found everything satisfactory and arrived safely. He did so, but the busy father had forgotten the arrangement, so, being puzzled, he telegraphed back: "Yes, what?" The answer came back: "Yes, sir."

A Marvelous Police Officer.

An offender against Russian laws was photographed in six different positions and the pictures were circulated among the police departments. The chief of one department wrote to headquarters a few days after the issue of the portraits: "Sir—I have duly received the portraits of the six miscreants whose capture is desirable. I have arrested five of them and the sixth is under observation and will be secured shortly."

Carrying Out a Doctor's Advice.

An old Scottish minister gave up his toddy for the sake of example. The doctor said this change was bad for him, and suggested his taking a dose surreptitiously whenever he sent for his shaving water. Some time after the doctor called again, and the old servant met him with tears in her eyes. "Oh, doctor, doctor!" she exclaimed, "the moonlighter's game clean daft, clean daft! He's sending for his shaving wather frae mornin' tae night!"

Weighing Thoughts.

A thought-weighting machine has been invented by Prof. Mosso, an Italian physiologist, the rush of blood to the head turning the scale. The machine is so delicate that it can measure the difference in the exertion needed to read Greek from that required for Latin.

How He Apologized.

"He" was an elevator man, and consequently one of the mighty of the earth. Into the elevator limped a suffering old man, who scarcely dared to set his foot down. The elevator man, just to encourage his caller to hurry, placed his foot carefully upon the little toe of the passenger. There resulted, first a groan, then a shiver, then a yell, and finally a tornado of profanity. Being of a religious persuasion, the elevator man mildly rebuked his passenger for such an outburst, and asked what was the matter. "Why, you * * *," said the passenger, "you just stepped square on an inflamed corn!" "Do you suffer from corns?" asked he of the elevator, blandly. "Then you have my sympathy. I know what it means."

Fooled the Landlord.

Landlords are getting very particular about their tenants. If a person has a dozen children he's very coolly told that he cannot have the premises. "Have you any children, madam?" inquired one of these sharpers of a lady in modest black who was looking at one of his houses just finished and in perfect order. "Yes," said the gentle mother, "I have seven, sir, but they are all in the churchyard." Without further parley the bargain was closed. Her little flock was waiting for her in the churchyard around the corner, and were delighted to hear that she had found a snug little house so speedily.—Pearson's Weekly.

As Good as a Compass.

It is a well known fact that in the vast prairies of Texas a plant is always to be found which, under all circumstances of climate, change of weather, rain, frost or sunshine, invariably turns its leaves and flowers to the north. If a solitary traveler were making his way across those trackless wilds without a star or compass to direct him he finds an unerring monitor in an humble plant, and he follows its guidance, certain that it will not mislead him.

Dignity of Senator Blackburn.

Senator Blackburn is always oratorical, and declamatory when in the senate, even when speaking on the most commonplace matters. The other day he made a motion to adjourn, speaking in his usual impressive way. After the motion had been carried President Pro Tem. Frye said to him: "Joe, I thought when you got on your legs that time that you were going to move that the president be impeached."

Wanted to Starve to Death.

Paris has just produced a curiosity in a servant girl, who ate nothing for 13 days, having been reproached by her mistress, and fearing dismissal, the girl, who had recently arrived from the country, locked herself in a cellar, having only a bottle of water with her. All efforts to find her were in vain, but at the end of 13 days she was discovered by accident only just alive, and has been restored to life. She intended to starve to death.

Slightly Excited.

A bareheaded boy, carrying a tin dipper, rushed breathlessly into a Lancaster, Pa., drug store and stunned the proprietor by his excited remarks: Doctor, mother sent me down to the shotacarypop quicker'n blazes coz bub's sick as the dickens with the pipinchocks an' she wants a sinbiefol of polygollie in this dipper coz she hasn't bot a gottle handy an' the ain tup's got the blue witters in it. Got any?—Philadelphia Times.

Warning to Mormons.

President Angus M. Cannon, in a discourse at the Mormon Tabernacle, in Salt Lake City, Utah, severely reproved the young people who marry Gentiles. "Look around you," he said, "and you will see that many of our girls have married outside of the faith, and many of our young men have married women who are not of this faith. They have forgotten the obligations they are under."

KIDNAPPED

THE ADVENTURES OF DAVID BALFOUR IN THE YEAR 1714

BY ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

CHAPTER VII.

I GO TO SEA IN THE BRIG COVENANT, OF DYSART.

"What kind of talk is that?"

I came to myself in darkness, in great pain, bound hand and foot, and deafened by many unfamiliar noises. There sounded in my ears a roaring of water as of a huge milldam—the thrashing of heavy sprays, the thundering of the sails and the shrill cries of seamen. The whole world now heaved giddily up, and now rushed giddily downward; and so sick and hurt was I in body, and my mind so much confounded, that it took me a long while chasing my thoughts up and down, and ever stunned again by a fresh stab of pain, to realize that I must be lying somewhere bound in the belly of that unlucky ship, and that the wind must have strengthened to a gale.

I had no measure in time. Day and night were alike in that ill smelling cavern of the ship's bowels where I lay, and the misery of my situation drew out the hours to double. How long therefore I lay waiting to hear the ship split upon some rock, or to feel her reel head foremost into the depths of the sea I have not the means of computation. But sleep at length stole from me the consciousness of sorrow.

I was awakened by the light of a hand lantern shining in my face. A small man of about thirty, with green eyes and a tangle of fair hair, stood looking down at me.

"Well," said he, "how goes it?" I answered by a sob, and my visitor then felt my pulse and temples, and set himself to wash and dress the wound upon my scalp.

"Aye," said he, "a sore dent [stroke]. What, man? Cheer up! The world's no done. You've made a bad start of it, but you'll make a better. Have you had any meat?"

I said I could not look at it, and thereupon he gave me some brandy and water in a tin pannikin and left me once more to myself.

The next time he came to see me I was lying betwixt sleep and waking, my eyes wide open in the darkness, the sickness quite departed, but succeeded by a horrid giddiness and swimming that was almost worse to bear.

The glimmer of the lantern as a trap opened shone in like the heaven's sunlight, and though it only showed me the strong, dark beams of the ship that was my prison, I could have cried aloud for gladness. The man with the green eyes was the first to descend the ladder, and I noticed that he came somewhat unsteadily. He was followed by the captain. Neither said a word, but the first set to and examined me and dressed my wound as before, while Hosenason looked me in my face with an odd, black look.

"Now, sir, you see for yourself," said the first; "a high fever, no appetite, no light, no meat; you see for yourself what that means."

"I am no conjurer, Mr. Riach," said the captain.

"Give me leave, sir," said Riach; "you've a good head upon your shoulders and a good Scotch tongue to ask with, but I will leave you no manner of excuse; I want that boy taken out of this hole and put in the fore-castle."

"What ye may want, sir, is a matter of concern to nobody but yourself," returned the captain, "but I can tell ye that which is to be. Here he is; here he shall bide."

"Admitting that you have been paid in a proportion," said the other, "I will crave leave humbly to say that I have not. Paid I am, and none too much to be the second officer of this old tub, and you ken very well if I do my best to earn it. But I was paid for nothing more."

"If ye could hold back your hand from the tin pan, Mr. Riach, I would have no complaint to make of ye," returned the skipper, "and instead of asking riddles I make bold to say that ye would keep your breath to cool your porridge. We'll be required on deck," he added in a sharper note, and set one foot upon the ladder.

But Mr. Riach caught him by the sleeve. "Admitting that you have been paid to do a murder"—he began.

Hosenason turned upon him with a flash.

"What's that?" he cried. "What kind of talk is that?"

"It seems it is talk that you can understand," said Mr. Riach, looking him steadily in the face.

"Mr. Riach, I have sailed with ye three cruises," replied the captain. "In all that time, sir, ye should have learned to know me; I'm a stiff man and a dour man, but for what ye say the now—fy, fy—it comes from a bad heart and a black conscience. If ye say the lad will die—"

"Aye, will he?" said Mr. Riach.

"Well, sir, is not that enough?" said Hosenason. "Flit him where ye please!"

Thereupon the captain ascended the ladder, and I, who had lain silent throughout this strange conversation, beheld Mr. Riach turn after him and bow as low as to his knees in what was plainly a spirit of derision. Even in my then state of sickness I perceived two things—that the mate was touched with liquor, as the captain hinted, and that, drunk or sober, he was like to prove a valuable friend.

Five minutes afterward my bonds were cut, I was hoisted on a man's back, carried up to the fore-castle and laid in a bunk on some sea blankets, where the first thing I did was to lose my senses.

It was a blessed thing indeed to open my eyes again upon the daylight and to find myself in the society of men. The fore-castle was a roomy place enough, set all about with berths, in which the men of the watch below were seated smoking or lying down asleep. The day being calm and the wind fair, the scuttle was open, and not only the good daylight, but from time to time (as the ship rolled) a dusty beam of sunlight shone in and dazzled and delighted me. I had no sooner moved, moreover, than one of the men brought me a drink of something healing which Mr. Riach had prepared, and bade me lie still and I should soon be well again. There were no bones broken, he exclaimed: "A clout on the head was naething. Man," said he, "it was me that gave it ye!"

Here I lay for the space of many days a close prisoner, and not only got my health again, but came to know my companions. They were a rough lot indeed, as sailors mostly are, being men rooted out of all the kindly parts of life, and condemned to toss together on the rough seas, with masters no less cruel. There were some among them that had sailed with the pirates and seen things it would be a shame even to speak of. Some were men that had run from the king's ships, and went with a halter round their necks, of which they made no secret, and all, as the saying goes, were "at a word and a blow" with their best friends. Yet I had not been many days shut up with them before I began to be ashamed of my first judgment.

Among other good deeds that they did they returned my money, which had been shared among them, and though it was about a third short I was very glad to get it, and hoped great good from it in the land I was going to. The ship was bound for the Carolinas, and you must not suppose that I was going to that place merely as an exile. The trade was even then much depressed; since that, and with the rebellion of the colonies and the formation of the United States, it has of course come to an end; but in these days of my youth white men were still sold into slavery on the plantations, and that was the destiny to which my wicked uncle had condemned me.

The cabin boy, Ransome (from whom I had first heard of these atrocities), came in at times from the roundhouse, where he berthed and served, now nursing a bruised limb in silent agony, now raving against the cruelty of Mr. Shuan. It made my heart bleed, but the men had a great respect for the chief mate, who was, as they said, "the only seaman of the whole jingbang, and none such a bad man when he was sober."

I did my best in the small time allowed me to make something like a man, or rather I should say something like a boy, of the poor creature, Ransome. But his mind was scarcely truly human. He could remember nothing of the time before he came to sea; only that his father had made clocks, and had a stalling in the parlor which could whistle "The North Country;" all else had been blotted out in these years of hardship and cruelties. He had a strange notion of the dry land, picked up from sailors' stories—that it was a place where lads were put to some kind of slavery called a trade, and where apprentices were continually lashed and clapped into foul prisons. In a town, he thought every second person a decoy, and every third house a place in which seamen would be dragged and murdered.

All this time, you should know, the Covenant was meeting continual head winds and tumbling up and down against head seas, so that the scuttle was almost constantly shut and the fore-castle lighted only by a swinging lantern on a beam. There was constant labor for all hands; the sails had to be made and shortened every hour; the strain told on the men's temper; there was a growl of quarreling all day long from berth to berth, and as I was never allowed to set my foot on deck you can picture to yourselves how weary of my life I grew to be and how impatient for a change.

And a change I was to get, as you shall hear; but I must first tell of a conversation I had with Mr. Riach, which put a little heart in me to bear my troubles. Getting him in a favorable stage of drink (for indeed he never looked near me when he was sober), I pledged him to secrecy and told him my whole story.

He declared it was like a ballad; that he would do his best to help me; that I should have paper, pen and ink, and write one line to Mr. Campbell and another to Mr. Rankellor, and that if I had told the truth ten to one he would be able, with their help, to pull me through and set me in my rights.

"And in the meantime," says he, "keep your heart up. You're not the only one, I'll tell you that. There's many a man hoing tobacco over seas that should be mounting his horse at his own door at home; many and many! And life is all a variorum at the best. Look at me. I'm a laird's son, and more than half a doctor, and here I am man Jack to Hosenason!"

I thought it would be civil to ask him for his story.

He whistled loud.

"Never had one," said he. "I liked fun, that's all."

And he skipped out of the fore-castle.

CHAPTER VIII.

THE ROUNDHOUSE.

Mr. Riach started forward and caught it away from him.

One night, about nine o'clock, a man of Mr. Riach's watch (which was on deck) came down for his jacket, and instantly there began to go a whisper about the fore-castle that "Shuan had done for him at last." There was no need for a name—we all knew who was meant—but we had scarce time to get the idea rightly in our heads, far less to speak of it, when the scuttle was again flung open and Captain Hosenason came down the ladder. He looked sharply around the bunks in the tossing light of the lantern, and then walking straight up to me addressed me, to my surprise, in tones of kindness.

"My man," said he, "we want ye to serve in the roundhouse. You and Ransome are to change berths. Run away aft with ye."

Even as he spoke two seamen appeared in the scuttle carrying Ransome in their arms, and the ship at that moment giving a great sheer into the sea and the lantern swinging, the light fell direct on the boy's face. It was as white as wax and had a look upon it like a dreadful smile. The blood in me ran cold, and I drew in my breath as if I had been struck.

"Run away aft. Run away aft with ye!" cried Hosenason.

And at that I brushed by the sailors and the boy (who neither spoke nor moved) and ran up the ladder on deck.

The brig was sheering swiftly and giddily through a long, cresting swell. She was on the starboard tack, and on the left hand, under the arched foot of the fore-castle, I could see the sunset still quite bright. This at such an hour of the night surprised me greatly, but I was too ignorant to draw the true conclusion—that we were going north about round Scotland and we were now on the high sea between the Orkney and the Shetland islands, having avoided the dangerous currents of the Pentland firth. For my part, who had been so long shut in the dark and knew nothing of head winds, I thought we might be half way or more across the Atlantic.

POLICE COURT

A Number of Misdemeanor Cases
Tried Before Judge Sanders Today

Jerry Davis Waived Examination for Obtaining Money by False Pretenses.

Judge Sanders had quite a lengthy docket in police court this morning.

Jerry Davis, colored, charged with obtaining money by false pretenses by selling a foot adze and some other things he is alleged to have stolen, waived examination and was held to answer in the sum of $300.

W. C. Harkerdon, Bruce Gillam, Joe Oehrlie, S. C. Rosser, white, were fined $1 and costs for being drunk.

The case against Mr. Theodore Peters, for using insulting language, was left open.

W. L. Wright was fined $5 and costs for being drunk and disorderly. He was alleged to have followed Officer Enoch Linn with an open knife.

Robert Fowler, colored, was fined $25 and sentenced to ten days in jail for carrying a pistol.

The breach of the peace case against Cora Hurt was continued until Saturday.

The malicious cutting case against Mary Pullen was continued until Thursday.

Ethel Elgin and Ed Brahic, R. Tidwell and Jennie Shaw, and Harry Allen and Dora Kennedy were fined $20 and costs for immorality.

The case against William Watson of Hickman was of unusual interest. He was fined $1 and costs for drunkenness. He was to have been tried today for murder at Hickman, and was out on a $10,000 bond. As Judge Sanders had no court yesterday he would have been unable to answer to his name today and his $10,000 would have been forfeited, had not William Bradley, of Hickman, come up after him. Watson is charged with killing James Treas, near Jordan, some time ago.

A PACKED HOUSE

LARGE CROWD GREETED THE AR-NOLD STOCK CO. AT THE KENTUCKY.

Judging from the large crowd last night and the expressions of satisfaction heard on all sides, the Arnold Stock Co. will draw good houses every night this week. "Lost in Siberia" was the bill last night, and the house was packed throughout, standing room only being obtainable.

The Arnold company is one of the best on the road, and its members are men and women of exceptional ability, as evidenced by their performance last night. The play was well presented and the audience was delighted with it, and will doubtless return tonight.

The sleight of hand men with the company are far above the average magicians and performed a trick last night that has the public guessing today.

The trick is known as the box trick. One man dressed differently from his partner tied securely with his hands behind him and is then placed into a sack which is tied and the knot sealed. The man is then placed in a trunk, which is also tied and shoved into a small cabinet on the stage and within a minute after the curtains have been pulled aside the men have changed places and the man who was in the box makes his appearance in the audience. The trick was the only one performed last night and alone was well worth the price of admission.

A MYSTERY STILL

Congressman Chas. K. Wheeler Can
Not Fathom it

Has Never Recommended Any Stenographer to Anyone in Chicago.

Congressman Charles K. Wheeler is puzzled over the requests for information that come to him and local newspaper correspondents by mail and wire relative to a young woman under suspicion or arrest in Chicago supposed to know something of the Bartholin murder. It appears that the woman was a stenographer for E. F. Noonan, a former congressman, and that the latter says she came from Kentucky and was recommended to him by Congressman Wheeler, of Paducah.

Her name is Marian, or something similar, but Congressman Wheeler does not know her, and says he never heard of her or recommended her or anyone else to Noonan or anyone else in Chicago. He says he remembers Noonan was a member of the Fifty-sixth congress, but he never spoke to him that he remembers of, and paid little attention to him, although his seat was not far from Congressman Wheeler's desk.

He is of the opinion that a mistake has been made somewhere, and that if Noonan claims he, Mr. Wheeler, recommended any stenographer to him, it is because Noonan, remembering that Congressman Wheeler took a somewhat lively interest in the proceedings, happened to think of him in connection with the girl, who claims she is from this state.

The little daughter of Rev. J. C. Reid narrowly escaped serious injury this morning from the town cow.
